Job Description

We currently have a permanent vacancy for either a trainee or experienced individual.

ProspectSoft, a leading UK developer and vendor of CRM (Customer Relationship Management) and CMS (Content Management System) Solutions is looking for highly motivated, outgoing and capable team player to join its high performing Professional Services department.

ProspectSoft is focused on delivering real value to its clients through added value consultancy services to help them achieve the most from their software. We have strong partnerships with international brands such as Intel, enjoy a high energy atmosphere and are looking for people who can help us dominate the UK CMS landscape.

No specific experience is essential but we are looking for applicants who can demonstrate an interest in web solutions, have design, html and css skills, a high degree of IT literacy, an understanding of business and the commercial world, as well as written and verbal communication skills. Above all, a desire to help the customer, ability to work with and influence people, and a hard working mentality will be the most important attributes.

The role involves helping our nationwide network of resellers and customers with systems analysis, web solutions, consultancy and training. You will gain experience with some of the industries latest and most powerful technologies such as SQL Databases, Web technologies, Microsoft Windows Servers, Microsoft Office, Microsoft Exchange, as well as ProspectSoft CRM and ProspectSoft CMS... and many more. The role also involves challenging problem solving and project management. You will struggle to find a more exciting and challenging role!

Career Prospects

Successful applicants will be provided with full product installation, implementation and report writing training.

As a rapidly growing organisation, ProspectSoft also provides a wealth of opportunities for motivated and capable individuals in both senior consultant as well as management positions.

Location

Based at our Headquarters in Stokenchurch, Buckinghamshire.
